Travis is a skilled trial lawyer and litigator advocating for the rights of the seriously injured. Travis started his career representing insurance companies and defending personal injury matters. As a result, he has insight into helping injured clients navigate insurance disputes which are oftentimes intentionally confusing and misleading. Travis' practice is devoted to representing individuals who have been injured at work, in motor vehicle crashes, or in other matters. He believes that a client is best served by an attorney who is always prepared to go to trial but has enough empathy and compassion to walk clients through a challenging time in their lives. Throughout Minnesota, Travis has assisted his clients in obtaining fair compensation for their injuries by way of processing settlements, obtaining arbitration awards, and effectuating jury verdicts. Travis is a member of the Minnesota Association for Justice, the Minnesota State Bar Association and serves as an arbitrator for Minnesota No-Fault Automobile cases for the American Arbitration Association.
